Kwalindile Community; Zimbane Community v King Sabata Dalindyebo Municipality and Others
Constitutional Court of South Africa: [\[2013\] ZACC 6](#).

Judgment delivered: 28 March 2013.

Coram: Mogoeng CJ, Moseneke DCJ, Cameron, Froneman, Jafta, Nkabinde, Skweyiya, Van der Westhuizen and Zondo JJ.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Judicial review – Restitution of Land Rights Act, s 34 – Appellant communities sought restitution of their rights in land – The Land Claims Court, and the Supreme Court of Appeal found for the Municipality, making a non-restoration order on the basis that restoration would not be in the public interest – Whether it is in the public interest that the land the communities claim not be restored to them, or whether the public will suffer substantial prejudice should a court refuse to make a non-restoration order ahead of the final determination of the claims.

Held: Appeal allowed (unanimous). A non-restoration order violates the constitutional right of a claimant to possible restoration. Therefore, any order must be made with enough particularity to ensure that a successful claim is not unduly curtailed. Further nothing on the facts justifies the conclusion that it is in the public interest for rights on vacant and undeveloped land not to be restored, or that there is substantial public prejudice because vacant and undeveloped land maybe restored to the applicant communities when their claim is finally determined.

Uprichard v Scottish Ministers and another (Scotland)
Supreme Court of the United Kingdom: [\[2013\] UKSC 21](#).

Judgment delivered: 24 April 2013

Coram: Lord Hope DPSC, Lord Kerr, Lord Reed, Lord Carnwath and Lord Carloway JJSC.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Adequacy of reasons – Fife Council proposed development of St. Andrews – Plan subsequently modified but not materially with respect to St. Andrews – Appellant objected to absence of any modification with respect to St. Andrews – Ministers approved the plan and provided reasons for their decision – Whether short reasons provided under broad categories are adequate in circumstances.

Held: Appeal dismissed (unanimously). The reasons given must be proper, adequate and intelligible, and must deal with the substantive points raised by way of objection. If that test is met, short reasons may suffice, and if a point of objection is not substantive, little or no reasoning may be given. Further, the Ministers' duty to give reasons must be assessed with a sense of proportion, so that an unreasonable burden is not imposed on them. Where Ministers receive a plethora of objections, it is reasonable for the Ministers to group them into broad categories according to their general tenor and to respond to them on that basis.

KwaZulu-Natal Joint Liaison Committee v Member of the Executive Council, Department of Education, KwaZulu-Natal and Others

Constitutional Court of South Africa: [\[2013\] ZACC 10](#).

Judgment delivered: 25 April 2013.

Coram: Mogoeng CJ, Moseneke DCJ, Cameron, Froneman, Jafta, Nkabinde, Khampepe, Skweyiya, Yacoob and Zondo JJ.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Legitimate expectation – In 2008 the Department of Education issued a notice setting out “approximate” funding levels for the 2009 financial year – In May 2009, after the first payment had already fallen due, the Department issued a circular to schools warning that the subsidies would be cut by 30% - Applicant argued that the 2008 notice had given rise to an enforceable undertaking to pay the entire year’s subsidy without reduction – Whether parties acted with intention of bringing enforceable obligations into existence.

Held: Appeal allowed (Mogoeng CJ, Jafta, Nkabinde and Zondo JJ dissenting). Majority accepted that in general subsidies promised by government may be reduced. However, for reasons based on reliance, accountability and rationality, a public office who promises to pay specified amounts to named recipients cannot unilaterally reduce the amounts to be paid after the due date for their payment has passed.

Seaton v Minister for Land Information

Supreme Court of New Zealand: [\[2013\] NZSC 42](#).

Judgment delivered: 29 April 2013.

Coram: Elias CJ, McGrath, William Young, Chambers and Glazebrook JJ.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Judicial review of Ministerial decision – Public Works Act, s 23 – New Zealand Transport Agency (NZTA) resolved to widen road – Completion of road-widening project required three electricity towers to be removed and placed on land owned by appellant – After period of unsuccessful negotiation Minister issued notice under s 23 of the Act to compel the appellant to grant easements over her property – Appellant sought declarations that Minister’s decision to take the easements and the related s 23 notice were invalid on the ground that NZTA did not need the easements for the road-widening project – Whether the Minister properly used the processes under the Act to compulsorily acquire the easements over the appellant’s land.

Held: Appeal allowed (McGrath, William Young JJ dissenting). The Minister is empowered to acquire land that is indirectly required for a Government work under s 16(1) of the Public Works Act. However, the majority held that the easements were not reasonably required, directly or indirectly, for the Government work of road-widening. Rather the easements were required for works of the utilities. Thus the Minister must follow the procedure under s 186(1) of the Resource Management Act 1991.

McBurney v Young

Supreme Court of the United States: Docket No 12-17.

Judgment delivered: 29 April 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Freedom of information – Petitioner non-Virginia citizens' records requests denied – Petitioner sought declaratory and injunctive relief for violations of the Privileges and Immunities Clause – Whether refusal to furnish information abridged the PIC where information available by other means.

Constitutional law – Congressional duties and powers – Commerce clause – Whether Virginia law burdens or regulates interstate commerce

Held (9-0): Appeal dismissed.

Behn v Moulton Contracting Ltd

Supreme Court of Canada: [\[2013\] SCC 26](#).

Judgment delivered: 9 May 2013.

Coram: McLachlin CJ, LeBel, Fish, Abella, Rothstein, Cromwell, Moldaver, Karakatsanis and Wagner JJ.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Standing – Aboriginal law – Treaty rights – Duty to consult – Individual members of Aboriginal community asserted in defence to tort action against them that issuance of logging licences breached duty to consult and treaty rights – Whether individual members have standing to assert collective rights in defence.

Civil procedure – Abuse of process – Motion to strike pleadings – Members of Aboriginal community blocked access to logging site and subsequently asserted in defence to tort action against them that issuance of logging licences breached duty to consult and treaty rights – Whether raising defences constituted abuse of process.

Held: Appeal dismissed. The duty to consult exists to protect the collective rights of Aboriginal peoples and is owed to the Aboriginal group that holds them. While an Aboriginal group can authorise an individual or an organisation to represent it for the purpose of asserting its Aboriginal or treaty rights, here, it does not appear from the pleadings that the First Nation authorised the community members to represent it for the purpose of contesting the legality of the licences. Given the absence of an allegation of authorisation, the members cannot assert a breach of the duty to consult on their own.

Raising a breach of the duty to consult and of treaty rights as a defence was an abuse of process in the circumstances of this case. Neither the First Nation nor the community members had made any attempt to legally challenge the licences when the Crown granted them. Had they done so, the logging company would not have been led to believe that it was free to plan and start its operations.

Arlington v FCC

Supreme Court of the United States: Docket No 11-1545.

Judgment delivered: 20 May 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Judicial review – Chevron doctrine – Petitioner cities filed actions against Federal Communications Commission (“FCC”) seeking judicial review of a ruling the FCC issued which established time frames state and local governments were supposed to meet when they received applications to place, construct or modify personal wireless service facilities – Timeframe was a rebuttable presumption of 90 days for collocation applications and 150 days for all other application – Whether courts had to apply the Chevron framework to an agency’s interpretation of a statute that concerned the scope of the agency’s jurisdiction.

Held (6-3): Appeal dismissed, Chevron doctrine applied.

*Association of Regional Magistrates of Southern Africa v
President of the Republic of South Africa and Others*
Constitutional Court of South Africa: [\[2013\] ZACC 13](#).

Judgment delivered: 23 May 2013.

Coram: Mogoeng CJ, Moseneke DCJ, Froneman, Jafta, Khampepe, Mhlantla AJ, Nkabinde, Skweyiya, Van der Westhuizen and Zondo JJ.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Judicial Review – Promotion of Administrative Justice Act (“PAJA”) – Review for irrational decision – The Independent Commission for the Remuneration of Public Office Holders recommended a 7% increase for all public office-bearers for 2010/2011 financial year – Subsequently the President reduced increase to 5% – Whether decision of the President was void for irrationality.

Constitutional law – Justiciability – Whether decision of the President is reviewable.

Held: Appeal dismissed (unanimous). Decision was rational. In any case the President’s decision was non-justiciable under PAJA as it was an executive decision

Development and Others*
Constitutional Court of South Africa: [\[2013\] ZACC 19](#).

Judgment delivered: 13 June 2013.

Coram: Moseneke DCJ, Froneman, Khampepe, Jafta, Nkabinde, Skweyiya, Van der Westhuizen, Zondo JJ and Mhlantla AJ.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Standing – Belgian authorities sought evidence relating to a third party’s business with the applicant as part of an ongoing criminal investigation – Minister for Justice and Constitutional Development approved request and a Magistrate issued a subpoena – Applicant challenged the lawfulness of respondent’s decisions on basis that absent an opportunity to be heard its constitutional rights to just administrative action and privacy would be breached – Whether applicant met requirements to establish own-interest standing under s 38 of the Constitution –

Held: Appeal dismissed (Jafta, Nkabinde and Zondo JJ dissenting). Applicant had not laid a basis to show that any of its purported interests – privacy, confidentiality or proprietary rights – existed in the information sought by the Belgian authorities.

Bank Mellat v HM Treasury (Liberty intervening) (Nos 1 and 2)
Supreme Court of the United Kingdom: [\[2013\] UKSC 38](#); [\[2013\] UKSC 39](#).

Judgment delivered: 19 June 2013

Coram: Lord Neuberger PSC, Lord Hope DPSC, Lady Hale, Lord Kerr, Lord Clarke, Lord Dyson, Lord Sumption, Lord Reed and Lord Carnwath JJC.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Executive powers – Order in Council – Validity – Treasury made Order in Council containing direction prohibiting transactions or business relationships with Iranian bank in order to prevent facilitation of nuclear weapons production in Iran – Bank given no opportunity to make representations before Order made – Bank applied to set aside direction – Whether Order proportionate – Whether procedurally flawed – Whether lawful.

Civil procedure – Supreme Court – Jurisdiction – Evidence – Closed material procedure (“CMP”) – Order in Council contained direction prohibiting transactions or business relationships with Iranian bank in order to prevent facilitation of nuclear weapons production in Iran – Bank appealed from courts’ refusal to set aside direction – Treasury proposed to rely on closed material in resisting appeal – Whether Supreme Court has jurisdiction to hear closed evidence – Whether appropriate to do so.

Held: (i) By a majority of six to three (Lord Hope, Lord Kerr and Lord Reed dissenting) it is possible for the Supreme Court to adopt a CMP on an appeal, (ii) by a majority of five to four (Lord Hope, Lord Kerr, Lord Dyson, and Lord Reed dissenting), it is appropriate to adopt a CMP in this appeal.

Judgment delivered: 20 June 2013.

Coram: McLachlin CJ, LeBel, Fish, Abella, Rothstein, Moldaver and Karakatsanis JJ.

Catchwords:

Administrative law – Judicial review – Standard of review – Ministerial decisions – Immigration – Citizen of Libya found to be inadmissible based on membership in terrorist organization – Application for ministerial relief denied – Appropriate standard of review to apply to Minister’s decision – Whether, in light of this standard, Minister’s decision is valid.

Administrative law – Natural justice – Legitimate expectations – Citizen of Libya found to be inadmissible based on membership in terrorist organization – Application for ministerial relief denied – Whether there was failure to meet legitimate expectations – Whether there was failure to discharge duty of procedural fairness.

Citizenship and Migration – Inadmissibility and removal – Ministerial relief – Citizen of Libya found to be inadmissible based on membership in terrorist organization – Application for ministerial relief denied – Interpretation of term “national interest” – Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, s 34(2).

Held: Appeal dismissed and Minister’s decision under s 34(2) of the IRPA allowed to stand.

Judgment delivered: 19 March 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Civil procedure – Class actions – Respondent insured filed a proposed class action in state court against petitioner insurer, stipulating that the class would seek less than $5 million in damages – After removal a district court remanded, finding that the amount in controversy fell below the threshold of s 1332(d) of the Class Action Fairness Act – Whether class action should go ahead.

Held: Judgment remanding the case was vacated and case remanded for further proceedings (unanimous).

Judgment delivered: 27 March 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Civil procedure – Class actions – Prerequisites – Respondent subscribers of cable-television services brought a putative class action against petitioner alleging that the providers violated antitrust laws by swapping services with competitors in order to serve certain areas – Whether attributable damages were common across the entire class.

Held (5-4): Judgment upholding certification of the subscriber's class reversed.

Penner v. Niagara (Regional Police Services Board)

Supreme Court of Canada: [\[2013\] SCC 19.](#)

Judgment delivered: 5 April 2013.

Coram: McLachlin CJ, LeBel, Fish, Abella, Rothstein, Cromwell and Karakatsanis JJ.

Catchwords:

Civil procedure – Issue estoppel – Administrative law – Police disciplinary proceedings – Complaint alleging police misconduct brought under Police Services Act (“PSA”) – Civil action for damages arising from same incident also commenced – PSA hearing officer found no misconduct and dismissed complaint – Motion judge and Court of Appeal exercised discretion to apply issue estoppel to bar civil claims on basis of hearing officer’s decision – Whether public policy rule precluding applicability of issue estoppel to police disciplinary hearings should be created – Whether unfairness arises from application of issue estoppel in this case.

Held: Appeal allowed (LeBel, Abella and Rothstein JJ dissenting). It is neither necessary nor desirable to create a rule of public policy excluding police disciplinary hearings from the application of issue estoppel. The doctrine of issue estoppel allows for the exercise of discretion to ensure that no injustice results; it calls for a case-by-case review of the circumstances to determine whether its application would be unfair or unjust even where, as here, the preconditions for its application have been met. There is no reason to depart from that approach. However, in the circumstances of this case, it was unfair to P to apply issue estoppel to bar his civil action on the basis of the hearing officer’s decision. The Court of Appeal erred in its analysis of the significant differences between the purpose and scope of the two proceedings, and failed to consider the reasonable expectations of the parties about the impact of the proceedings on their broader legal rights.

Judgment delivered: 10 June 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Civil procedure – Alternative dispute resolutions – Judicial review – Federal Arbitration Act – Petitioner insurer moved to vacate an arbitrator’s decision under s10(a)(4) of the Act – Whether s 10(a)(4) allows a court to vacate an arbitral award.

Held (9-0): Appeal dismissed, appellate court’s judgment affirmed.

Judgment delivered: 12 June 2013

Coram: Lord Neuberger PSC, Lord Mance, Lord Clarke, Lord Sumption and Lord Toulson JJSC.

Catchwords:

Civil procedure – Arbitration – Injunction – Jurisdiction to grant — Restraint of foreign proceedings — Court proceedings commenced in Kazakhstan in breach of agreement for arbitration in London — Whether English court having jurisdiction to grant anti-suit injunction restraining foreign proceedings when neither party commencing or contemplating arbitration in London.

Held: Appeal dismissed (unanimous). The English courts have a long-standing and well-recognised jurisdiction to restrain foreign proceedings brought in violation of an arbitration agreement, even where no arbitration is on foot or in contemplation. Nothing in the Arbitration Act 1996 (“the 1996 Act”) has removed this power from the courts

Supreme Court of the United Kingdom: [\[2013\] UKSC 37](#).

Judgment delivered: 13 June 2013

Coram: Lord Hope DPSC, Lord Clarke and Lord Carnwath JJSC.

Catchwords:

Civil procedure – Supreme Court jurisdiction – Jurisdiction to hear appeals in Scottish civil cases – Appellant wished to appeal against two orders of the Inner House of the Court of Session – Appellant company ran out of money – Leave to appeal to the Supreme Court denied because Scots law requires company to be represented – Whether appellant can appeal to the Supreme Court without leave of Inner House.

Held: Apollo can competently appeal to the Supreme Court without the leave of the Inner House against the part of the order of 27 November 2012 which dismissed the stated case, as long as the appeal raises a question which can be responsibly be certified by counsel as reasonable.

Catchwords:

Civil Procedure – Access to justice – Disclosure – Privilege – Promoting Settlement – Settlement privilege – Scope of protection offered by settlement privilege – Appellants entered into Pierringer Agreements with some defendants to multi-party litigation – Non-settling defendants sought disclosure of amount of settlements prior to trial – Whether amounts of negotiated settlements protected by settlement privilege

Held: Appeal allowed. There is no tangible prejudice created by withholding the amounts of the settlements which can be said to outweigh the public interest in promoting settlements.

Judgment delivered: 20 June 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Civil procedure – Class actions – Alternative dispute resolutions - Arbitrations – Respondent merchants filed a class action against petitioner claiming violation of § 1 of the Sherman Act – The merchants had entered into an agreement with petitioner which required them to resolve disputes they had with the company by arbitration, and provided that they did not have the right to arbitrate any claim "on a class action basis" – District court granted petitioners' motion to compel individual arbitration under the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA), 9 U.S.C.S. § 1 et seq – Whether class action allowed.

Competition law – Respondents alleged that petitioner used its monopoly power to force merchants to accept credit cards at rates approximately 30 per cent higher than fees charged for competing cards – Whether breach of antitrust law.

Held (5-3): Appeal allowed. Class action not allowed under the agreement.

Judgment delivered: 18 April 2013.

Coram: Mogoeng CJ, Moseneke DCJ, Cameron, Jafta, Nkabinde, Skweyiya, Yacoob and Zondo JJ.

Catchwords:

Constitutional law – Mineral Petroleum Resources Development Act 2004 – The MPRD Act was introduced as part of transition from apartheid regime and had the effect of freezing the ability to sell, lease or cede unused old order rights until converted into prospecting or mining rights with the written consent of the Minister – Appellant claimed that the Act had the effect of expropriating mineral rights – Whether the Act is invalid by virtue of s 25(1) of the Constitution which prohibits deprivation of property.

Held: Appeal dismissed (Cameron, Froneman and Van der Westhuizen JJ agreeing on separate points). While the MPRD Act deprived the appellant of its coal rights, the deprivation did not rise to the level of expropriation: 1) because the Act made transitional arrangements which protected pre-existing mineral rights and improved security of tenure, and 2) because the object of the Act was, inter alia, to facilitate equitable access to the mining industry and advance the eradication of all forms of discriminatory practices in the mining sector.

Catchwords:

Constitutional law – Scotland Act 1998 – Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act 2003 – s 72 of the 2003 Act provided a mechanism to prevent landlords from terminating tenancies on their agricultural holdings – Appellant was landlord seeking to terminate tenancy – Whether s 72(6) applied to the appellant.

Human rights law – European Convention on Human Rights – First Protocol – Whether s 72 of the 2003 Act violates A1P1 of the European Convention on Human Rights.

Held: Appeal allowed (unanimous). Mr Salvesen's A1P1 rights were violated by section 72(10) of the 2003 Act and that this provision is outside the legislative competence of the Scottish Parliament.

Catchwords:

Constitutional law – Inconsistency between legislative Acts – In furtherance of a dispute with the Municipality, the Appellant withheld payment of property rates and taxes but paid electricity and other services accounts in full – In response the Municipality disconnected the appellant’s electricity supply – Appellant claimed the municipality was precluded from disconnecting her electricity supply under the Electricity Regulation Act – Whether municipality had any grounds under the ERA – Whether Local Government Acts were inconsistent with the ERA.

Held: Appeal dismissed (unanimous, Froneman J with different reasons). Majority held that the municipality had grounds under the ERA to terminate the appellant’s electricity supply. Further, no inconsistency existed between the ERA and the relevant Local Government Acts.

Levkovic v The Queen

Supreme Court of Canada: [\[2013\] SCC 25.](#)

Judgment delivered: 3 May 2013.

Coram: McLachlin CJ, LeBel, Fish, Abella, Rothstein, Cromwell and Moldaver JJ.

Catchwords:

Constitutional law – Charter of Rights – Right to liberty – Right to security of person – Fundamental justice – Vagueness – Criminal Code, s 243 prohibits the disposal of the dead body of a child with intent to conceal its delivery whether the child died before, during or after birth – Whether provision is impermissibly vague in its application to child that died before birth – Whether provision infringes rights to liberty and security of person.

Criminal Law – Offences – Concealing body of child – Whether phrase “child [that] died...before birth” satisfies requirement of certainty.

Held: Appeal dismissed. Section 243 meets the minimum standard of precision required by the Charter. In its application to a child that died before birth, it only captures the disposal of the remains of children that were likely to be born alive. A conviction will only lie where the Crown proves that the child, to the knowledge of the accused, was likely to have been born alive

Coram: Mogoeng CJ, Moseneke DCJ, Froneman, Khampepe, Jafta, Nkabinde, Skweyiya, Van der Westhuizen, Zondo JJ and Mhlantla AJ.

Catchwords:

Constitutional law – Applicant convicted of dealing in a dependence-inducing drug and sentenced to 12 years imprisonment – Applicant appealed conviction and sentence – State did not seek leave to cross-appeal against the sentence but in supplementary written submissions stated that it would argue for the sentence imposed to be increased to 20 years – Supreme Court of Appeal found in State’s favour and increased sentence to 20 years – Applicant argued that by failing to seek leave to cross-appeal the State breached s 316 of the Criminal Procedure Act and violated his constitutional right to a fair hearing

Statutory interpretation – Criminal Procedure Act, s 316.

Held: Appeal upheld (Moseneke DCJ, Skweyiya and Van der Westhuizen JJ dissenting). The State must satisfy s 316 of the Act and seek leave to cross-appeal to increase a sentence. Failure to do so means that the State loses its right to appeal.

Judgment delivered: 17 June 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Constitutional law – Bill of Rights – Fifth Amendment – Self-incrimination privilege – Petitioner voluntarily answered some of a police officer's questions about a murder but fell silent when asked whether ballistics testing would have matched his shotgun to shell casings found at the scene of the crime – Petitioner had not been placed in custody or received a Miranda warning – Petitioner did not testify at his murder trial – Over his objection, prosecutors used his reaction to a police officer's question during an interview as evidence of his guilt – Jury found petitioner guilty and he received a 20 year sentence – Whether use of silence violated the Fifth Amendment.

Evidence – Privileges – Self-incrimination – Whether a person must assert the privilege against self-incrimination to subsequently benefit from it – Whether a person can invoke the privilege by remaining silent.

Held (5-4): Appeal dismissed. Petitioner's situation was outside the scope of Miranda because he agreed to accompany the officers to the station and was free to leave at any time during the interview.

Catchwords:

Constitutional law – Inconsistency of state and Federal regulations – Sex Offender Registration and Notification Act (SORNA) – Respondent as member of the Air Force was convicted of statutory rape – Several years after completing sentence Congress enacted SORNA – SORNA requires Federal sex offenders to register in States in which they live – Respondent registered but failed to re-register after moving interstate – Whether Congress has power to enact SORNA’s registration requirements and apply them to an offender who had already completed his sentence.

Held (7-2): Appeal allowed. Congress has the power under Article I, Section 8, Clause 14 (the “Military Regulation” Clause) to “make Rules for the...Regulation of the land and naval Forces”. Applying the Necessary and Proper Clause to the Military Regulation Clause, the Court held that SORNA made reasonable changes to the existing statutory regime governing sex offender registration.

Catchwords:

Constitutional law – Voting Rights Act – Discrimination – Preclearance requirement – s 5 of the Act required all state and local governments with a history of voting discrimination to obtain approval from the federal government before making any amendments to their voting laws or procedures – s 4 sets out the formula for determining which jurisdictions will be subject to the preclearance requirements – Whether ss 4 and 5 are valid.

Held (5-4): The Court held that the preclearance requirement under s 5 is constitutional, but the formula under s 4 is not. Thus s 5 has no effect unless and until Congress passes legislation determining which jurisdictions are covered by the preclearance requirement.

Supreme Court of Canada: [\[2013\] SCC 16](#).

Judgment delivered: 27 March 2013

Coram: McLachlin CJ, LeBel, Fish, Abella, Cromwell, Moldaver and Karakatsanis JJ.

Catchwords:

Criminal law – Interception of communications – General warrant – Telecommunications company employed unique process for transmitting text messages resulting in messages stored on their computer database for brief period of time – General warrant required telecommunications company to produce all text messages sent and received by two subscribers on prospective, daily basis – Whether general warrant power in s. 487.01 of Criminal Code can authorise prospective production of future text messages from service provider's computer – Whether investigative technique authorized by general warrant in this case is an interception requiring authorization under Part VI of Criminal Code – Whether general warrant may properly issue where substance of investigative technique, if not its precise form, is addressed by existing legislative provision.

Held: Appeal allowed (McLachlin CJ and Cromwell dissenting). The general warrant and related assistance order should be quashed.

Per LeBel, Fish and Abella JJ: The general warrant in this case was invalid because the police had failed to satisfy the requirement under s. 487.01(1)(c) of the Code that a general warrant could not be issued if another provision in the Code is available to authorise the technique used by police.

Per Moldaver and Karakatsanis JJ: The general warrant is invalid because the investigative technique it authorised was substantively equivalent to an intercept. The police could and should have sought a Part VI authorisation.

R v W.H.

Supreme Court of Canada: [\[2013\] SCC 22](#).

Judgment delivered: 19 April 2013.

Coram: McLachlin CJ, LeBel, Fish, Rothstein, Cromwell, Moldaver and Karakatsanis JJ.

Catchwords:

Criminal law – Appeals – Unreasonable verdict – Role of appellate court when assessing reasonableness of verdict based on jury's assessment of witness credibility – Jury found accused guilty of sexual assault – Court of Appeal concluded that verdict was unreasonable and entered an acquittal – Whether Court of Appeal applied proper legal test – Whether the verdict was unreasonable.

Held: Appeal allowed and conviction restored. The Court of Appeal in applied the wrong legal test and, in carrying out its review of the jury's verdict, failed to give sufficient deference to the jury's assessment of witness credibility. The test to be applied by courts of appeal in reviewing guilty verdicts for unreasonableness does not involve the reviewing court attempting to put itself in the place of an imaginary trial judge and on a review of the written record asking whether that imaginary judge could have articulated legally adequate reasons for conviction. The Court of Appeal's adoption of this new test resulted in its failure to take a sufficiently deferential approach to the findings of the jury viewed, as they must be, in the context of the whole of the evidence

Buzizi v R

Supreme Court of Canada: [\[2013\] SCC 27.](#)

Judgment delivered: 10 May 2013.

Coram: LeBel, Fish, Moldaver, Karakatsanis and Wagner JJ.

Catchwords:

Criminal law – Defences – Provocation – Accused convicted of second degree murder – Whether defence of provocation should have been put to jury – Whether objective and subjective elements of defence of provocation were established, thereby lending air of reality to this defence.

Held: Appeal allowed (LeBel and Wagner JJ dissenting). Verdict of guilty set aside and a new trial ordered. To the extent that the evidence adduced before him was reasonably capable of supporting the inferences necessary to make out the defence, the trial judge was bound to put the defence of provocation to the jury. The air of reality test is not intended to assess whether the defence is likely, unlikely, somewhat likely, or very likely to succeed at the end of the day. The relevant question is whether the record contains a sufficient factual foundation for a properly instructed jury to give effect to the defence.

R v A.D.H.

Supreme Court of Canada: [\[2013\] SCC 28.](#)

Judgment delivered: 17 May 2013.

Coram: McLachlin CJ, Fish, Abella, Rothstein, Cromwell, Moldaver and Karakatsanis JJ.

Catchwords:

Criminal law – Child abandonment – Mens rea – Accused gave birth in washroom at retail store and left newborn in toilet – Accused testified that she had not realised she was pregnant and that she believed child was born dead – Acquittal entered – Whether fault element is subjective or objective.

Held: Appeal dismissed.

Per McLachlin CJ, Fish, Abella, Cromwell and Karakatsanis JJ: The text, context and purpose of s. 218 of the Code show that subjective fault is required. It follows that the trial judge did not err in acquitting the respondent on the basis that this subjective fault requirement had not been proved. The Court of Appeal was correct to uphold the acquittal.

Per Rothstein and Moldaver JJ: Under a penal negligence standard, a mistake of fact that is both honest and reasonable affords a complete defence. Thus, an objective mens rea standard does not punish the morally blameless. In the present circumstances, the trial judge found that the respondent honestly believed that her child was dead at birth and that this belief was objectively reasonable. As such, she was entitled to be acquitted based on the defence of honest and reasonable mistake of fact.

Judgment delivered: 7 June 2013.

Coram: LeBel, Fish, Abella, Rothstein, Moldaver, Karakatsanis and Wagner JJ.

Catchwords:

Criminal law – Defences – Charge to jury – Defences that are incompatible in theory – Accused charged with being party, together with her spouse, to murder of their three children – Alternative defence that accused had abandoned common intention to kill children – Whether it was appropriate to exclude defence of abandonment from defences put to jury on basis that it was incompatible with defence’s principal theory, absence of mens rea.

Criminal law – Defences – Abandonment – Participation in crime – Accused charged with being party, together with her spouse, to murder of their three children – Alternative defence that accused had abandoned common intention to kill children – Essential elements of defence of abandonment in context of forms of participation in crime provided for in s 21(1) and s 21(2) of Criminal Code – Whether defence of abandonment raised by accused met air of reality test

Held: Appeal dismissed (Fish J dissenting). There is no cardinal rule against putting to a jury an alternative defence that is at first glance incompatible with the primary defence. The issue is not whether such a defence is compatible or incompatible with the primary defence, but whether it meets the air of reality test. In any case, the trial judge must determine whether the alternative defence has a sufficient factual foundation, that is, whether a properly instructed jury acting reasonably could accept the defence if it believed the evidence to be true. ...The defence of abandonment...did not meet the air of reality test, and the trial judge was not required to put the defence to the jury.

under the 2009 version in effect at the time of sentencing – Whether the Ex Post Facto Clause was violated because the 2009 Guidelines called for a greater punishment than the 2000 Guidelines.

Judgment delivered: 13 June 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Criminal law – Appeals – Standard of review – Defendant entered a guilty plea to conspiracy to defraud the U.S. by filing false income tax returns – District court denied defendant's motion to vacate plea – On appeal, defendant argued that a magistrate judge had improperly participated in the plea negotiations in violation of Fed. R. Crim. P. 11(c)(1) – Magistrate judge had told defendant that his best course, given the strength of the government's case, was to plead guilty – Whether magistrate judge's violation of Rule 11(c)(1) required automatic vacatur of the guilty plea, obviating any need to inquire whether the error was prejudicial.

Held (9-0): The Court vacated the circuit court's judgment and remanded the case for further proceedings. Under Rule 11(h), vacatur was not required if the record showed no prejudice to the defendant's decision to plead guilty. The Court further held that violation of Rule 11(c)(1) was not a structural error and that in assessing Rule 11 errors, a reviewing court had to take account of all that transpired. The circuit court should not have assessed the magistrate's comment in isolation but in light of the full record to determine if it was reasonably probable that, but for the magistrate's comments, defendant would have exercised his right to go to trial.

Catchwords:

Equity – Trusts – Purchase money resulting trust – Appellant used funds received from respondent to purchase property in appellant’s own name – Funds represented disputed monies owed to third party – Whether purchase money resulting trust should be abolished in commercial transactions in favour of unjust enrichment principles – Whether a transfer is gratuitous when it constitutes the discharge of a legal and moral obligation to a third party – Whether a proportionate interest in the property is acquired where the transferor attempted, but failed to secure the title holder’s agreement to an interest in the property – Whether presumption of resulting trust was rebutted.

Held: Appeal allowed. There is no reason to depart from the long standing doctrine of the purchase money resulting trust in favour of an approach based on unjust enrichment.

Hannigan v The Queen

Supreme Court of New Zealand: [\[2013\] NZSC 41](#).

Judgment delivered: 26 April 2013.

Coram: Elias CJ, McGrath, William Young, Chambers and Glazebrook JJ.

Catchwords:

Evidence – Evidence Act 2006, ss 94 and 37(4) – Appellant found guilty of setting fire to his home on 21 June 2009 in order to generate an insurance claim – Convicted of arson – At trial the Crown alleged the appellant had also set fire to the kitchen on 14 and 20 June 2009 – Appellant’s wife gave testimony inconsistent with earlier statement she had given to the police – Due to inconsistency the Judge allowed the Prosecutor to re-examine the appellant’s wife – Appellant alleged re-examination was in the nature of a cross-examination and amounted to attack on her veracity which should not have been allowed in absence of a determination of hostility – Whether re-examination was lawful.

Held: Appeal dismissed (Elias CJ dissenting). The Judge was entitled to permit the prosecutor to examine Mrs Hannigan on the 26 June statement under s 89(1)(c) of the Act and that the questioning did not require a determination of hostility under s 94. On the second issue, the majority found that the prosecutor was not challenging Mrs Hannigan's veracity. Rather, he was challenging the accuracy of her evidence and putting before the jury the substance of what she had said to the police in her prior statement. The restriction in s 37(4) was thus inapplicable. The majority also found that the exclusionary provisions which form part of the veracity rules are not applicable to evidence which is directly relevant to facts in issue in a trial.

Judgment delivered: 13 June 2013

Coram: Lord Hope DPSC, Lord Kerr, Lord Wilson, Lord Hughes and Lord Toulson JJSC.

Catchwords:

Human rights law — Fair trial — Reasonable time requirement — Defendants interviewed under caution — Formal proceedings not commenced until five years later — Whether defendants "charged" at conclusion of interview under caution — Date from which reasonable time to be assessed — Whether breach of reasonable time guarantee.

Criminal law – Fair trial – Reasonable time requirement.

Held: The court determines the two compatibility issues as follows: (1) that the date when the reasonable time began for the purposes of the appellants' article 6(1) Convention right was 5 April 2005; and (2) that the Lord Advocate's act in proceeding with the trial on the murder charges was not incompatible with the appellants' article 6(1) right to a trial before a tribunal that was independent and impartial. Judgment delivered: 19 June 2013

Coram: Lord Hope DPSC, Lady Hale, Lord Mance, Lord Kerr, Lord Wilson, Lord Carnwath and Lord Walker JJSC.

Catchwords:

Human rights law — Life — Soldiers on active service abroad — Soldiers serving in Iraq killed by improvised explosive devices while driving patrol vehicles — Whether within scope of United Kingdom's Convention jurisdiction — Whether Convention right to life extends to soldiers on active service outside British territory.

Torts – Negligence – Duty of care — Soldiers serving overseas — Soldiers serving in Iraq killed by improvised explosive devices while driving Snatch Land Rover patrol vehicles or killed or injured inside tank when attacked by friendly fire — Whether state owes serving soldiers a duty of care in providing equipment subsequently used in conflict — Whether claim relating to procurement of equipment and adequacy of training justiciable — Whether defence of combat immunity available.

Held: The Supreme Court held unanimously that in relation to the Snatch Land Rover claims, Pte Hewett and Pte Ellis were within the UK's jurisdiction for the purposes of the Convention at the time of their deaths. By majority (Lords Mance, Wilson and Carnwath dissenting), the Court holds that: (i) the Snatch Land Rover claims should not be struck out on the ground that the claims are not within the scope of article 2 of the Convention; and (ii) the Challenger claims and Ellis negligence claim should not be struck out on the ground of combat immunity or on the ground that it would not be fair, just or reasonable to extend the MoD's duty of care to those cases.

The effect of the Court's decision is that all three sets of claims may proceed to trial.

Catchwords:

Intellectual property – Patents – Respondent patent holder sued petitioner farmer for infringing its patents on a soybean seed – Farmer raised patent exhaustion as defence, arguing that the holder could not control his use of the soybeans because they were the subject of a prior authorised sale – Whether a farmer who bought patented seeds can reproduce them through planting and harvesting without the patent holder's permission

Held (9-0): Appeal dismissed, judgment affirmed. Under the patent exhaustion doctrine, the farmer could have (1) resold the patented soybeans he purchased from the grain elevator, (2) consumed the beans himself, or (3) fed them to his animals. But the exhaustion doctrine did not enable the farmer to make additional patented soybeans without the holder's permission (either express or implied).

Judgment delivered: 13 June 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Intellectual property – Patents – Respondent laboratory isolated genes, mutations of which increased the risk of ovarian and breast cancer and synthetically created cDNA containing only the genetic code for amino acids – Laboratory's patents granted the laboratory the exclusive rights to develop medical tests for detecting DNA mutations and assessing a patient's cancer risk – Petitioners, medical patients, advocacy groups, and doctors, brought an action against laboratory seeking a declaration that the laboratory's patents for isolating deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) in genes and creating composite DNA (cDNA) were invalid.

Held (9-0): A naturally occurring DNA segment was a product of nature and not patent eligible under 35 U.S.C.S. § 101 merely because it was isolated, but cDNA was patent eligible because it was not naturally occurring. In isolating the genes, the laboratory found important and useful genes but did not create or alter either the genetic information encoded in the genes or the genetic structure of the DNA, and the location and order of the genetic sequences existed in nature before the laboratory isolated them. However, cDNA which removed codes for anything other than amino acids was not a product of nature and was patent eligible since the removal of the unwanted codes unquestionably created something new.

Judgment delivered: 13 June 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Property law – Water rights – Petitioner Texas regional water district sued respondent Oklahoma Water Resources Board ("OWRB"), seeking an order enjoining the OWRB from enforcing Oklahoma statutes which prohibited the Texas water district from drawing water out of a river that was located in Oklahoma – Petitioner claimed that portions of Okla. Stat. tit. 82, §§ 105.12 and 105.12A which created a permit review process that applied only to out-of-state water users were pre-empted by the Red River Compact, Act of Dec. 22, 1980, 94 Stat. 3305, and that the district had the right under the Compact to take water from the Kiamichi River, a tributary of the Red River that was located in Oklahoma – Whether Oklahoma Statute was pre-empted by the Compact.

Held (9-0): Appeal dismissed. The Supreme Court interpreted § 5.05(b)(1) of the Compact and found that nothing in § 5.05(b)(1) or any other section of the Compact allowed Texas to take water that was located within Oklahoma without obtaining permission from Oklahoma, and because the Compact did not create cross-border rights, Oklahoma statutes which regulated out-of-state water users were not pre-empted by the Compact.

Supreme Court of the United States: Docket No 11-10362.

Judgment delivered: 27 March 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Torts – Public entity liability – Federal Tort Claims Act – Petitioner federal prisoner sued the United States under the Act alleging assault and battery by federal correctional officers – Whether the “law enforcement proviso” under 28 U.S.C.S. § 2680(h) applies only to torts during executing a search, seizing evidence or arrests.

Held (9-0): Appeal allowed.

Cassidy Alexis Ediger, an infant by her Guardian Ad Litem, Carolyn Grace Ediger v Johnston

Supreme Court of Canada: [\[2013\] SCC 18.](#)

Judgment delivered: 4 April 2013.

Coram: McLachlin CJ, LeBel, Rothstein, Cromwell, Moldaver, Karakatsanis and Wagner JJ.

Catchwords:

Torts – Negligence – Causation – Doctor attempted mid-level forceps delivery of baby – Baby’s umbilical cord became compressed causing bradycardia and brain injury – Doctor did not arrange for back-up Caesarean section delivery or advise mother of mid-level forceps delivery risks prior to attempting forceps delivery – Whether doctor’s attempted forceps delivery caused bradycardia – Whether doctor’s failure to arrange for back-up Caesarean section delivery or to advise mother of mid-level forceps delivery risks prior to attempting forceps delivery caused baby’s injury.

Held: Appeal allowed (unanimous). The sole issue here is causation: Did the doctor’s breaches of the standard of care cause the baby’s injury? Because causation is a factual inquiry, the standard of review for the trial judge’s causation findings is palpable and overriding error. There was no such error here.

Cojocar v British Columbia Women’s Hospital and Health Centre

Supreme Court of Canada: [\[2013\] SCC 30.](#)

Judgment delivered: 23 May 2013.

Coram: McLachlin CJ, LeBel, Fish, Abella, Rothstein, Cromwell, Moldaver, Karakatsanis and Wagner JJ.

Catchwords:

Torts – Negligence – Causation – Health law – Consent to care – Failure to inform – Plaintiffs alleged defendants were negligent in failing to obtain informed consent to vaginal birth after caesarean section or to prostaglandin induction and in failing to attend to plaintiff – Plaintiffs alleged lack of proper care resulted in ruptured uterus and son born with brain damage – Whether trial judge’s conclusion on liability of various defendants disclose palpable errors of fact or legal errors and should be set aside.

Judgments and orders – Reasons – Trial judge delivered reasons for judgment consisting of reproduction of plaintiffs’ written submissions – Whether trial judge’s decision should be set aside because reasons for judgment incorporated large portions of material prepared by others.

Held: Appeal and cross-appeal allowed.

Taking full account of the complexity of the case, and accepting that it would have been preferable for the trial judge to discuss the facts and issues in his own words, it cannot be concluded that the trial judge failed to consider the issues and make an independent decision on them.

However, aspects of the reasons disclose palpable and overriding error and must be set aside. The trial judge’s findings of liability against Nurse Bellini, the Hospital, Dr Steele and Dr Edris must be set aside.

Transportation Law

Dan’s City Used Cars, Inc. v Pelkey

Supreme Court of the United States: Docket No 12-52.

Judgment delivered: 13 May 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Transportation law – Interstate commerce – Federal pre-emption – Respondent owner of a vehicle brought an action against petitioner towing company alleging violation of state tort and statutory law in storing and disposing of the vehicle – Whether federal pre-emption of state laws related to a service of any motor carrier with respect to the transportation of property applied to bar the owner’s state-law claims

Held (9-0): Appeal dismissed.

American Trucking Associations, Inc. v Los Angeles
Supreme Court of the United States: Docket No 11-798.

Judgment delivered: 13 June 2013.

Coram: Roberts CJ, Scalia, Kennedy, Thomas, Ginsburg, Breyer, Alito, Sotomayor and Kagan JJ.

Catchwords:

Transportation law – Interstate commerce – Federal pre-emption – Petitioner trade association sued respondents, a city and a port, contending that the Federal Aviation Administration Authorisation Act of 1994 expressly pre-empted provisions in a concession agreement – Whether provisions in the concession agreement which compelled a company to affix a placard on each truck with a phone number for reporting concerns and to submit a plan listing off-street parking locations for each truck when not in service were pre-empted.

Held (9-0): The U.S. Supreme Court determined that 49 U.S.C.S. § 14501(c)(1) expressly pre-empted the agreement's placard and parking provisions because those requirements had the force and effect of law since the agreement functioned as part and parcel of a governmental program wielding coercive power over private parties, backed by the threat of criminal punishment.

Tribal Customary Law

Mayelane v Ngwenyama and Another
Constitutional Court of South Africa: [\[2013\] ZACC 14](#).

Judgment delivered: 30 May 2013.

Coram: Mogoeng CJ, Moseneke DCJ, Cameron, Froneman, Khampepe, Jafta, Nkabinde, Skweyiya, Yacoob and Zondo JJ.

Catchwords:

Tribal customary law – Family law – Applicant married husband in 1984 under Tsonga customary law – Marriage not registered – After husband died the applicant was informed that her husband had purported to conclude a second customary marriage with the first respondent – Applicant did not consent to second marriage –

Whether absence of a first wife's consent to her husband's subsequent polygynous marriages affects the validity of the latter marriages.

Held: Appeal allowed (Zondo J on different reasons; Jafta J (with Mogoeng CJ and Nkabinde J concurring) without development of Tsonga law). Tsonga customary law required that the first wife be informed of her husband's subsequent customary marriage. The first respondent's marriage was invalid because the applicant had not been informed. Consistent with the Courts obligations to develop living customary law, Tsonga customary law now requires the consent of the first wife for a subsequent marriage.

Justice Mpondombini Sigcau v President of the Republic of South Africa and Others

Constitutional Court of South Africa: [\[2013\] ZACC 18.](#)

Judgment delivered: 13 June 2013.

Coram: Mogoeng CJ, Moseneke DCJ, Froneman, Jafta, Nkabinde, Skweyiya, Van der Westhuizen, Zondo JJ and Mhlantla AJ.

Catchwords:

Tribal customary law – Dispute about the rightful King of the AmaMpondo AseQawukeni – Applicant succeeded his father as Paramount Chief of the AmaMpondo AseQawukeni in 1978 – The Traditional Leadership and Governance Framework Act (the “Act”) subsequently amended – Fourth respondent sought declaration that he was the rightful King – Commission on Traditional Leadership Disputes and Claims investigated and concluded claim was valid, recommended to the President issue a notice to confirm the claim – Applicant sought review on basis that the President erred in issuing the notice under the amended Act – Under the original Act the President would have had to refer the matter to the existing Royal Family before deciding whether to recognise the new King – Whether the notice should have been issued under the original or amended Act.

Held: Appeal allowed (unanimous). Because of material difference between the original and amended Acts, it cannot be said that a notice issued under the amended Act can be taken to have been issued under the original Act. The President therefore purported to exercise powers not conferred on him by the provisions of the amended Act.
