

HAIGH & ANOR
v
HADDAD & ANOR
[2025] HCADisp 159
S40/2025

- 1 The applicants require an extension of time within which to seek special leave to appeal from a decision of the Court of Appeal of the Supreme Court of New South Wales (Ward P and Adamson JA) which refused leave to appeal from a decision of the Supreme Court of New South Wales (Weinstein J) which, in turn, summarily dismissed proceedings brought by the applicants.
- 2 The proposed appeal has no prospects of success. Further, no question of principle falls for determination in this application. It would therefore be futile to grant the extension of time that is sought.
- 3 Special leave to appeal is refused with costs.
